Address delivered by the President, M. J. Johnson, Esq., on presenting the Medal of the Society to Mr. Main :—

Gentlemen,—In the absence of your President, the Council has done me the honour of placing me in this Chair—an honour I fully appreciate, though I wish they had selected a worthier representative of a man who for thirty years has been a most devoted and efficient officer of our Society, a most munificent supporter of our science, and who is associated with many of us by the closer ties of personal friendship and regard.

You will share in my feelings of sincere regret that we are
